

Use of fibrin components from autogenous blood in the surgical treatment of malignant neoformations of the larynx. [Russian]

Authors: Veremeenko K.N., Opanashchenko G.A., Kizim A.I.

Publication Date: 1989

Abstract:

This paper describes the use of fibrin compositions derived from autogenous blood, contrikal, a fibrinolysis inhibitor, and thrombin combined with calcium chloride for fortifying sutures applied in the laryngoesophageal defect area at the final stage of laryngectomy.