

Fibrin glue treatment of persistent pneumothorax in a premature infant.

Authors: Berger J.T., Gilhooly J.

Publication Date: 1993

Abstract:

Fibrin glue pleurodesis has been used to treat bronchopleural fistulas in adults. We report the successful use of fibrin glue in a premature infant to seal a pneumothorax that had persisted for more than 3 weeks despite high-frequency ventilation.