

Percutaneous injection of fibrin glue for persistent nephrocutaneous fistula after partial nephrectomy.

Authors: Bradford T.J., Wolf Jr. J.S.

Publication Date: 2005

Abstract:

We report a case of persistent urinary leak of nearly 4 months' duration after open surgical partial nephrectomy. The urinary leak was refractory to ureteral stenting, urethral catheter placement, and ureteroscopic fulguration. Fibrin glue was injected percutaneously under fluoroscopic guidance into the nephrocutaneous fistula tract, which resulted in its prompt and complete resolution. © 2005 Elsevier Inc.