

Fibrin glue of human origin: Its use in facial reconstruction with full-thickness skin graft. [French]

Authors: Bizzacchi J.M.A., Bueno M.A.C., Julio G.L., Athayde Cardoso L.A.

Publication Date: 1994

Abstract:

Fibrin glue of human origin was used in 12 patients following excision of facial skin tumors and reconstruction skin graft. Positive results were achieved in all cases with good by full-thickness healing, reduction of operating time and good aesthetic results.